we will briefly state here some facts. In a little over two months after our old netting plant was entirely destroyed (from which we saved not a cent's worth of machinery), we had new machinery running in our temporary factory, corner Sharp and Stockholm streets, which we are now running night and day, exerting every effort to accommodate our customers, filling as promptly as possible the great number of orders that we are receiving.

In the meantime we have finished the buildings of our new factory at River-side Park and B. & O. R. for it, which, when all installed, whi give us the best netting plant in this country, and a capacity three times more than we had before.

We expect to have our new factory going by October 1st when we will promise prompt and satisfactory attention to all orders for netting, twine, rope, corks, leads and everything for fishermen, and hope to prove our appreciation of the many favors extended to us by our good friends and patrons.
